

Question 849) - A man sold a silver vessel for gold or silver. They separated and he only took part of the price. What is the ruling?

A: The transaction is void in the amount he did not take and correct in regard to the amount he took. They are now partners in the vessel.

~ al-Quduri ~