

1. It is Makruh to divide the Quraanic ayat in groups of ten [Ruku?] and to place dots and diacritical marks therein.*
2. It is Makruh to use eunuchs.
3. There is no harm in castrating animals.
4. There is no harm in mating a horse and donkey to breed a mule.
5. It is permissible to accept the word of a slave or minor that the owner or adult had allowed the guest to enter or had given the recipient a gift.
6. The word of an open sinner will be accepted in transactions.
7. In matters of Din only an 'adil [does not openly sin] is accepted.
8. A eunuch gazing at a strange woman is the same as a normal man's regulations.
9. A man may practice coitus interruptus with his slave-girl without her permission. He may not do so with his wife, except with her permission.
10. It is Makruh to sell weapons during times of strife*
11. There is no harm in selling juice to one whom knows will make wine of it.

* Because the 'Arabs could read the Quran without them. putting the dots and marks these helps ensure correct reading.

* To those known to cause strife and rebellion.

~ al-Quduri ~