

Question 1408) - What if two men both claim that the child is theirs?

A: If one of them can describe some feature on the child's body then it is his. If none can, then it is for both unless one of them claimed the child first, in which case he will get the child.

~ al-Quduri ~