

Will Wudhu be Nullified when Blood Emerges after an Injection?

Q: Taharaat:35: Will wudhu be nullified when blood emerges after an Injection?

Answer: Wudhu will be nullified if the blood is enough to flow. It is stated in Kabeeri that if blood was cupped and a lot of blood was extracted, the wudhu will be nullified even if the blood did not stain the outside of the wound at all. The injection used today falls into the same category as the little horn that was used in the past to cup blood. The ruling for the injection will therefore be the same.³ And Allaah knows best what is most correct.
