

Who Should call out the Iqaamah if the Imaam calls out the Adhaan and is his Permission Necessary?

Q: Salaah-328: What do the Ulema and Muftis have to say about a situation in which a Mu'adhin is not appointed and the Imaam often calls out the Adhaan. Now can someone else call out the Iqaamah without the Imaam's permission?

Answer: While it is best that the person calling out the Adhaan calls out the Iqaamah as well, someone else may do so with his permission or if he is not present. This is not even Makrooh. This also applies in your case where the Imaam calls out the Adhaan. It will be Makrooh for anyone else to call out the Adhaan if the Imaam disapproves of it. And Allaah knows best what is most correct.
